Audo introduces Grey Galaxy marble to the Androgyne Collection.

Presenting a new expression in Danielle Siggerud's Androgyne collection for Audo, we introduce familiar favourites in Grey Galaxy, a marble marked by intricate veining patterns in light to medium tones with unique character.

Rooted in Nordic design principles yet inspired by a fusion of traditionally masculine and feminine design elements, the Androgyne Lounge Table showcases impeccable proportions as a functional furniture piece across a range of settings and purposes. In Grey Galaxy it has an added sense of tactility and refinement. The grand proportions of the Androgyne Dining Table Ø120 now pair an oiled or dark-stained oak base with a Grey Galaxy top, for a bold and confident take on a dining table. The smooth, honed surface and silver-grey veins of the marble contrast beautifully with the streamlined wooden base. On the Androgyne Side Table Top in Ø42, available separately for pairing with the corresponding Ø40 base, the depth and movement within the stone's natural swirls and inclusions evoke a sense of quiet sophistication. The Grey Galaxy marble is treated with a sealant to provide the optimal balance between a natural finish and functionality. As each product is made from natural materials, every piece is unique.

About the Designer

Danielle Siggerud, a Norwegian architect based in Copenhagen, obtained her master's degree in architecture from the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in Denmark. Founding her studio in 2016, her practice now operates globally, undertaking projects spanning from London and New York to Stockholm and Paris. Her portfolio encompasses private renovations, restorations and contemporary buildings to interior design, furniture making and smaller objects. Central to Siggerud's work is a keen eye for space and materials, evident in her sensitive and contextual approach. She embraces the essence of built forms, meticulously attending to details from the roughest construction to the smallest interior elements. At the heart of her design ethos lies a commitment to simplicity, achieved through a delicate balance of architectural fundamentals: space, proportion, light and materials. On her approach, Siggerud emphasises that these qualities are not merely sought for their intrinsic value, but as tools to enhance the human experience.
