The Mythmaker Table Lamp lives up to its name, as its squashed circular body is made of terracotta in a mix of satin black and black granite finishes that make it look as if it has been forged of iron. Though there is a slight aged feel that brings the lamp added texture, it is still modern in its lines. The oversized shade paired with the flatness of the body is a stylish design detail, as is the matching finial that fastens the shade to the lamp.
