The shape of the Classico Green Table Lamp was inspired by a 19th-century Zanfirico vase created by Venetian glassmakers on the island of Murano. The mottled-green mouth-blown material from which the body is made was created in two pieces that are cinched by a band of metal in an antique brass finish. The matching metal base and finial add to the warmth of the profile, and the empire shade bathes the swirling green, yellow, and beige patterning on its surface in illumination. Because it is made of an artisanal material, its surface may vary slightly from lamp to lamp.
