With a pattern that mimics the northern lights, the pale pink, green, and brown glass from which the vase-shaped body of the Brielle Table Lamp is made is an example of one of the most sophisticated glassblowing techniques. The artful creation sits atop a metal base that was carved with a pattern before it was covered in a gold leaf finish. The pink lamp is topped with a box-pleated shade that adds to its tailored appeal. Because it is made of an artisanal material, its surface may vary slightly from lamp to lamp.
