With furling leaves inspired by the lotus flower, the Foliatura Chandelier is created during an exacting process. The edges of and the veining in the leaves are made of iron in an antique brass finish, while the interior material is a smooth white composite. Each interior piece is cut, shaped, and sanded individually to fit into the overall composition. Two stylish aspects of the design are the staggered placement of the leaves and the fixture's art deco leanings. The fixture has six lights and is dimmable.
