With a profile made of strips of iron that have been finished in a distressed green verdigris, the Tuteurs Table Lamp and its ribbed shade form a shapely cage around the bulb. The complex process required to create this lamp takes painstaking concentration to ensure that the ribs of metal are cut uniformly and applied to the cross-bars consistently. Once in place, the entire green lamp is hand-finished. The material and the distressing call to mind an antique garden artifact. Due to the artisanal finish, the surface of each lamp could differ slightly.
