Alex Gabriels	MAIA
---------------	------

With the Mira collection, Alex Gabriels designed a set of simple, calming objects that reference the candlesticks that people used before the invention of electricity. The candleholders and vase have a handy ear or grip. The romantic atmosphere of this collection is paired with a sleek design that hints at modernism and is typical of Gabriels's style. Gabriels used chamotte clay, which highlights the design's serene look and feel with its rough, earthy texture.

Anita Le Grelle

TERRES DE REVES

Anita Le Grelle was born and raised in Antwerp, where she also gained her degree in graphic design. After working in advertising for a while, she moved to London with her family. While raising her kids there, she also attended sculpture classes at the Royal College of Art until achieving a diploma there too in 2000. For years, her works have been on display at numerous exhibitions in Belgium and London.

It was rather by coincidence that she ended up in the world of pottery in 2013. And how! In no-time, the demand for her creations became so great that she decided to continue along this path professionally: Terres De Rêves is both the name of her company and of her collection. The collection has evolved into a versatile range of tableware and accessories.

Anita is known for her understated forms, and this candle holder is no exception. It is an almost archetypal object that stays true to the very essence of what a candle holder is: a stand that adds a subtle touch of elegance to the table. The blue and green glazes, on the other hand, are less traditional and display a unique shine and depth of color.

Ann Demeulemeester	VARIOUS

Ann Demeulemeester founded her eponymous fashion label with long-term creative partner Patrick Robyn in 1985 and quickly became a key figure in redefining the voice of fashion internationally. In 2014 she stepped down from her fashion label and has since been exploring a variety of new formats, including sculpture and ceramics.

Since 2019 Demeulemeester has been collaborating with Serax to produce a range of lighting and luminous objects.

Ann Demeulemeester is known to represent an intelligent approach to design – rising above trends and instead offering a continually evolving world that is both deeply personal and profoundly relevant to its context – thanks to its integrity and fierce independence. In essence, Demeulemeester’s work continues to explore and celebrate contrasts – a beauty that is found in the interplay between strength and fragility, structure and nonchalance, poetic and radical, preciousness and functionality.

This collection explores two ancient typologies - vase and lamp – in such a way that a new category was created from their merger: the vase lamp, which turns a flower into a light source. Or: how to sculpt with light.

Antoine Vandewoude	PIQUE-FLEURS

Antoine Vandewoude is a self-taught designer with a strong hands-on mentality. Originally a theatre technician in the opera, he turned to design, establishing his own workshop in 1993. Established names in the fashion and art world soon discovered his work.

In the early years of his career, Vandewoude concentrated on wood and bespoke items. Since 2014, he has been working almost exclusively in clay. As is so often the case with designers, his love of ceramics was the result of a series of random coincidences. Vandewoude needed some pique fleur vases for his flowers and pots for his bonsais. Unfortunately, none of the available designs appealed to him. This led him to design his own.

Since then, he has created an impressive collection of internationally-acclaimed earthenware vases, pots and lamps. Vandewoude always starts from improvisation. Instead of working to a plan, he is the kind of designer who thinks with his hands, with his train of thoughts inspiring shapes while he manipulates the clay. Some designs feel rough, others more refined, but they all share the same authenticity and purity.

For Serax, Vandewoude gives his intuition free rein again, creating a collection of clay pique fleurs (vases with multiple holes) and a candlestick. Each object is an ode to chance and imperfection, with an organic, whimsical shape in vibrant, deep red. Also called sang de boeuf, this hue was praised in ancient China for its complex production process. The candlestick is a variation on the pique fleur and pairs beautifully with it. Candles and flowers always go nicely together.

Antonino Sciortino

METAL SCULPTURES

Antonino Sciortino (1962) is an artist and designer with a peculiar background. As a child, he learned the trade of ironsmith in his brother's workshop in Bagheria, a small town in Sicily. At the same time, Sciortino commutes to Palermo for his other passion: dance. After a solid career as a choreographer at the highest level, he settles in Milan in 2003 to set his attention on the art of ironwork. Today Sciortino is known for his applications to the technique of 'filo cotto', literally translated as 'boiled thread'. His artful design consists of flexible, iron wirework inspired by the elegant movements of dance.

Bela Silva

COSAS LINDAS

Portuguese artist Bela Silva, who alternately stays in Lisbon, Paris and Brussels, has already had an impressive career. Her works, ranging from watercolours to painted tiles and sculptures, have earned a permanent place in museum collections and exhibitions around the world. She has worked with renowned brands such as Hermès and Tiffany & Co. Her collaboration with Serax began in 2018. The collection called Cosas Lindas, Portuguese for ‘beautiful things’, has become a particularly figurative project. Although Bela is known for her vibrant use of colour, typical of her Southern temperament, the colours here are rather subdued, and she chose uniform green or beige glazes. Inspired by nature, she richly decorated the various objects of stoneware with carved fish and birds. While she previously vases, bowls and bowls, she explored other shapes with Cosas Lindas. In addition to a dish, the collection also includes two candlesticks and a spoon, each of which is a decorative pearl.

About her process, Bela says: “I don’t follow a strict formula when creating my artwork. I have different approaches, depending on what I think is most appropriate. Sometimes, it starts with a drawing or a prototype, or I just start to model spontaneously. I have no specific person or environment in mind for my objects. I believe they are suitable for all people and all places.”

Bertrand Lejoly	COSE

After studying at the École supérieure des arts Saint-Luc in Liège and several years of work experience in Germany and Italy, Bertrand Lejoly joined in 2013 Belgian architect Vincent Van Duysen as Head of Product Design. In 2018 he founded his own design studio in Antwerp. He describes his style as ‘refined simplicity’. His objects walk the boundary between an expressive yet subtle design language. He especially likes to play with elements that are engraved in the collective memory to create timeless items for everyday use.

For Serax, Lejoly designed Cose, a versatile collection of bowls, jars, soap dispensers and accessories. Originally designed for the bathroom, the pieces also fit seamlessly into kitchens and living spaces. Their rounded shapes, subtle imperfections and matte finishes embody Lejoly’s refined and timeless style.

José Levy	GLASS TOWERS

José Lévy is a Parisian artist and a traveller who navigates with talent and whimsical poetry between fashion, decorative arts, design and museum installations. His field of operation is diverse. Faithful to the human spirit and the person as a starting point, this remains the driving force behind all his projects. Designer of unique and intimate objects, José Lévy weaves links between his creations and their recipients. He infuses his work with a singular sense of rigour and imagination, re-creating his own or borrowed memories. Winner of the Villa Kujoyama, Grand Prix of the City of Paris and Knight of Arts and Letters, he designs for an audience keen on both stories of the past and new horizons. Portrait of José Lévy by Cécil Mathieu.

The contrasts in Parisian designer José Lévy's life are captured in his new collection for Serax: Glass Towers. Split between city life and the countryside, and often traveling between France and Japan, these influences come together in the design. The vases from the collection come in six variants and reference Tokyo's transparent skyscrapers and the vibrant colors of flowers.

Kelly Wearstler	ZUMA

Kelly Wearstler is an American designer and founder of her eponymous studio. She creates layered, sensory environments across residential, hospitality, commercial, and retail spaces, along with lifestyle collections and brand collaborations. Her work has earned international acclaim from Architectural Digest, Elle Décor, Wallpaper Magazine, and Time.

At the heart of her approach is a bold interplay of materials, colors, and forms, blending contemporary and vintage, architectural and organic. She believes in honoring history and place to push creative boundaries. A pioneer of the designer hotel movement in the early 2000s, she continues to redefine luxury living through culturally immersive, site-specific design. She studied interior, architectural, and graphic design, and has authored five books.

Her collaboration with Serax resulted in two contrasting tableware collections. Dune is an elegant nod to ancient pottery, with matte and glossy finishes emphasizing sculptural forms. Zuma features hand-stamped graphic patterns inspired by Bauhaus principles, in a mix-and-match palette of white, dark grey, and soft orange.

Kris Van Assche is one of Belgium's most renowned fashion designers, celebrated for his refined, minimalist style and his ability to merge tradition with innovation. From his early days at Yves Saint Laurent and Dior to leading Berluti, Van Assche has consistently pushed boundaries while honoring craftsmanship. His fascination with clothing began in childhood, inspired by his grandmother Josephine, who helped spark his creative journey. With a deep respect for heritage and an eye on the future, he brought streetwear into the world of haute couture, redefining the codes of menswear.

Today, Van Assche ventures beyond fashion, creating interior objects in collaboration with Serax. His work remains thoughtful, balanced, and contemporary, a reflection of his quiet strength as a designer. His lifelong love of flowers, often featured in his fashion collections, now finds new expression in objects for the home. This culminates in The Josephine Collection, a refined series of vases and bonbonnières that pays tribute to the woman who inspired it all.

Marie Michielssen	OBJECTS

Designer Marie Michielssen has been an established member of the in-house design team at Serax for over 20 years. She has created countless designs inspired by and intended for everyday life. Her designs have a strong focus on functionality, but because she only works with materials that have ‘soul’, this is in no way at the expense of the aesthetic of her work as each and every one of her designs clearly shows. Marie designs two collections a year for Serax.

Eclectic, a world full of wonderful extremes based on a well-thought-out structure. That is the first thing that comes to mind for the accessories collection of Marie Michielssen. Serax’s resident designer likes variety, both in style and in her use of materials and colours. From papier-mâché through concrete to porcelain, cheerfully coloured or in muted natural colours, inspired by constructivism or by the earth in its most rudimentary form, each collection is completely different.

Marni	AFTER MIDNIGHT

Founded in 1994, Marni is recognized as the most artistic, colour-savvy, life embracing, off-beat brand in the luxury segment. Renowned for its subversive collections, Marni has consistently challenged the traditional codes of fashion and the seriousness of dressing up, celebrating individuality through its distinctive approach to materials and colours, combined with a unique taste for prints and shapes. Marni's quirky elegance is a range of possibilities, a lifestyle with an avant-garde spirit that holds a constant dialogue with the world of art, finding ultimate expression in special collaborations and capsule collections.

Following the success of Midnight Flowers, a tableware collection designed by the eccentric Italian fashion brand Marni for Serax, comes After Midnight, a sculptural vase in the shape of an owl. This time, Marni opted for a whimsical, playful, and highly colorful style that contrasts beautifully with Serax's other collections. The vase, available in two sizes, is a true conversation piece. With this object, Marni breaks the seriousness of any table, especially at midnight.

Ottolenghi	SICILY

Yotam Ottolenghi is the restaurateur and chef-patron of six London-based delis and restaurants. He is the author of eight best-selling cookery books, including renowned titles as Plenty, Jerusalem and Simple. Amongst several prizes, Yotam won two James Beard awards in the US and the UK National Book Award. Yotam has been a weekly columnist for the Saturday Guardian for over thirteen years and is a regular contributor to The New York Times. His commitment to the championing of vegetables, as well as ingredients once seen as ‘exotic’ has led to what some call “The Ottolenghi effect”. This is shorthand for the creation of a meal which is full of colour, flavour, bounty and sunshine’.

The creative collaboration between celebrated chef Yotam Ottolenghi and his good friend, artist Ivo Bisignano, led this time to four exuberant hand-painted ceramic vases. With the Sicily vase collection, they journey from the table to the outside. ‘In Sicily, where I grew up, you eat at the kitchen table while enjoying the view of the colourful balconies with their magnificent flowers’, says Ivo Bisignano. Sicily captures Ottolenghi’s exuberant cooking style and is simultaneously an ode to the sun, colours and passion of Bisignano’s birthplace.

Pascale Naessens

VERDE LANZA

Pascale Naessens is, besides being a celebrated cookbook author, TV personality, and ceramicist, first and foremost the woman who left a bold mark on the timeline of Belgian cuisine. With her first cookbook, she laid the foundations of a new way of cooking, where health and purity took center stage. Later, she once again set a milestone — this time in the world of tableware — with Belgian design house Serax. With the Serax collection Pure, Naessens was the first to convey the feeling of perfect imperfection, without sacrificing functionality or comfort.

For her latest book Pascale not only picked up her pen, but also returned to her ceramics workshop. She handcrafted the Verde Lanza tableware collection, now produced exclusively by Serax. The name refers to the island of Lanzarote, where Naessens often resides. She drew inspiration from the green-painted wooden windows, doors, and sparse vegetation that contrast so strikingly with the black volcanic landscape. The sun-worn green — a color that pairs beautifully with all the world's delicious foods — is enhanced by the shell-like texture Naessens imprinted with her own fingers. In short: one hundred percent Pascale, and just as much sunshine.

Piet Boon

LUMEN & SHAPES

After his studies at the technical school in Amsterdam, Piet Boon began his career as a building contractor, but he would soon evolve into a high-profile Dutch designer. Today, Studio Piet Boon is an internationally operating total concept design company, where a team of architects, stylists and design professionals is continuously driven to exceed expectations, to stay true to the studio's reputation as the most renowned Dutch design studio in the world.

Piet Boon is the kind of designer who takes the simplicity of form and function to the next level, like in Lumen, his latest creation for Serax. The simple, transparent glass orb protects the candle in it, creating a stunning silhouette reminiscent of the moon. The choice of materials and meticulous workmanship combine to create a timeless shape that is both easy to use and sustainable. Lumen is a light for life.

With Shapes, Studio Piet Boon created 3 beautiful and serene vases, fully mouth-blown. Objects that have an aesthetic added value yet do not demand too much attention when filled with flowers. Japanese design and nature served as sources of inspiration. "The shape is inspired by the Japanese cherry blossom because it breathes the feeling we wanted to create," Piet Boon explains.

PLAN C	SILOS

For a completely new perspective on design, look no further than the Castiglioni family. Parents Gianni and Consuelo Castiglioni once founded the eccentric high-fashion brand Marni, and since 2018 their daughter Carolina — with the support of her father and brother — has taken up the torch with her own label, Plan C. Raised in the world of fashion, Carolina Castiglioni has emerged as a new rebel in the fashion scene. Now, for the first time, Plan C ventures into interior design in collaboration with Serax, launching a collection of vases and candlesticks that are anything but traditional.

The collection is called Silos, and the shapes of the objects quite literally reference these industrial storage structures. “A few years ago, I traveled to Iceland, where I took photos of an installation featuring three water tanks,” Carolina explains. “I was fascinated not only by the shape, but also by the incredible color combinations and patterns the silos displayed. But my work is never the result of a single inspiration. Many different elements come together during the creative process. For Silos, I combined those travel memories with research into vintage design objects.”

Silos strikes a perfect balance between vintage, eccentricity, and functionality. The shapes of the vases and candlesticks are irregular parallelepipeds, offering a fresh take on what a vase or candlestick can be. Color also plays a major role. Plan C uses three striking shades — brown, blue, and orange — that you wouldn’t immediately associate with home decor. Then there’s the choice of materials: the candlesticks are made from porcelain, and the vases from porcelain as well.

Roos Van de Velde is a visual artist who is inspired by nature. Nature is the thread that runs through all of her designs with a recurring and strong underlying presence. Her porcelain tableware, launched in 2009, symbolises innovation in different fields. It was the first time a tableware collection for restaurants and hotels was produced of which the imperfection, the flaws and the coincidence during the production process were given a reason to exist.

The tableware is like balancing on a thread, seeking the perfect imperfection. This porcelain range is a symbol of innovation in several ways. It is the first time a collection is produced in which imperfection, defectiveness and coincidence are given the chance to play their part during the production process. Hence the name, the Perfect Imperfection. The collection is modular, the ratios are proportional, and all items are nicely attuned to one another.

Ruben Deriemaeker	WAVES

With a solid background in woodworking, interior design and furniture design, Ruben Deriemaeker sketches, designs and makes furniture. Ruben particularly specialises in customised work. “My customers want something unique, a design with a story; well thought out and suited to the interior. I see it as a challenge to make sure that the furniture delivered is both functional and visually strong and translates the emotion that lies behind it. That is the X-factor, the added value I want to create for my customers.”

In 2014, Ruben Deriemaeker founded the Antwerp Label DERI3. ‘DERI3’ is a contraction of Ruben Deriemaeker. Appropriately enough, the Dutch word for ‘maker’ appears in his family name. Ruben always knew he wanted to be a designer. He grew up in an Antwerp neighbourhood known for its Renaat Braem architecture. His preference goes to working with materials provided by nature. Wood stands out for him because of its raw strength of character. It symbolises the forests where he played when he was a child.

SANTIAGO DE BORJA

The Belgian-Peruvian painter Shirley Villavicencio Pizango is conquering the art world with her playful, vibrant, and colorful portraits. Now, this young talent, together with Belgian design brand Serax, presents a unique collection of hand-painted ceramics that brings the pottery from her paintings to life.

Ceramics are strikingly present in Shirley’s paintings. The backgrounds of her portraits feature many wildly shaped vases in vivid colors—objects that, like a woman’s body, carry life. The new collection by Serax now brings that very pottery to life, one-to-one. “The goal was to translate elements from my paintings into the real world,” Shirley says. “I must admit that some vases were quite difficult to make. They are painted and not exactly logical in form.”

Each object radiates the warmth and wilderness of the Tropics, which comes as no surprise. Shirley grew up in Lima, Peru until she was eighteen and spent many vacations in a village called Santiago de Borja, located on a tributary of the Amazon River. Santiago de Borja is also the name of the collection. “I chose that name because it feels like people are entering my world through this collection,” she says. “Santiago de Borja is where I feel at home, where my family still lives, and where I reconnect with nature.”

The atmosphere of the Amazon, of ancient South American cultures, of color and life—but also of stillness and melancholy—is all captured in Shirley’s work. She creates a visual universe where life flows and flourishes. With this collection, Serax aims to make her art accessible to a wider audience. “I often think about how much I’d love to buy a work from a certain artist, but can’t afford it,” Shirley adds. “When an accessible object is released, I can still own something from that artist.” Every piece is hand-painted. With Santiago de Borja, you bring a true Shirley Villavicencio Pizango into your home.

The brand WAWW La Table was founded in France in 2020 by two close friends: Péri Cochin and Arabelle Reille. To bring the art of table setting back into the spotlight, they organized a weekly online photo competition for the most beautiful table moment. The contest quickly grew into a true community of people with a passion for elegant and decorative table settings, distinctive vintage and brocante pieces, and the pleasure of sharing a generously laid table together. In short: dining moments with a real waww effect.

The founders have strong cultural and artistic backgrounds. Arabelle Reille has more than fifteen years of experience as an art historian and art advisor, while Péri Cochin is trained as an architect and works as a television producer. Thanks to their shared expertise, they were able to grow the online community into a brand that offers both its own collections and designs by other designers.

The platform offers everything a host or hostess might need — from tableware to decorative objects — in a distinctly maximalist and decorative style. It could be described as an ode to the richly laid, convivial table bursting with color, texture, and character. For Serax, they design collections that are crafted using artisanal techniques. Their goal is to put the open table back on the map: a place where all styles and influences are welcome, and where everyone is invited to take a seat without conditions.

Since 1984, Wouters & Hendrix is about blending craftsmanship and surprise. Born in an avant-garde moment, they bend the rules of traditional jewellery making and wearing. Subtle rebels with a love for surrealism, they are drawn to unexpected combinations of materials and techniques. Each design, handmade in their Antwerp atelier, conducts a dialogue with subversive art, surrealist symbolism and outstanding craft.

Les Objets Mouleversants brings the same avant-garde artistry to home jewellery. From handcrafted tableware to decorative objects, the collection embodies the playfulness and creative essence of Wouters & Hendrix, blurring the lines between functionality and art.
